The International Union of Physiological Societies (IUPS) has allocated funds to support participation in the 2019 Pan-American Congress. Individual travel awards of $500.00 are available to support scientists based in Latin American countries members of IUPS that are attending and presenting in one of the approved sessions of the 2019 PANAM Congress for Physiological Sciences scheduled for May 27th – June 3rd in Havana, Cuba. More information on the Congress can be found at <http://www.panam2019.com/>.

The award funds will be reimbursed after the Pan-Am Congress. You will need to submit receipts providing evidence that you have attended the Congress. It is anticipated that you will need to send copies of your registration, airline, and hotel receipts. In addition, you will be asked to complete a survey designed to assess the benefits of IUPS support for your participation in the Congress. The survey link and reimbursement form will be distributed to you in advance of the Congress. Deadline for submission of applications is March 15, 2019. Funding decisions will be made by April 15, 2019.
